My Story

Fashion has always been my first passion.

Since childhood, I used to sketch dresses and dream of becoming a fashion designer. However, life circumstances led me to study Biomedical Engineering instead.

For more than ten years, I worked as an engineer in operating theatres at hospitals, building discipline, precision, and resilience throughout my career. Alongside my professional journey, I continuously explored my creative side through art exhibitions and various certifications in skincare and first aid instruction.

Despite all these experiences, I still felt that something was missing – I had not truly found myself yet.

Everything changed when I joined Naj Fashion Institute. There, I finally reconnected with my passion and gained the knowledge and confidence to begin my real journey in fashion. I studied fashion design, moodboard creation, sewing, draping, fashion business, and styling.

Today, this brand represents more than clothing.

It represents courage, rediscovery, and the decision to finally follow the dream that always lived inside me.
